

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

We have found that by applying pulsed bias power to a substrate support electrode in an etch chamber, anisotropic etching of silicon over an insulator layer can be carried out with a minimum of notching at the silicon-insulator interface and with improved uniformity of etching across the substrate.

5